Nova Twins
BMus(Hons) Popular Music Performance Scholarship Leeds
Terms and Conditions 2026

The BMus (Hons) Popular Music Performance award, offered as The Nova Twins BMus Popular Music Performance scholarship will cover the undergraduate tuition fees of one UK-based home fee status student for the entire three years of the ICMP BMus (Hons) Popular Music Performance degree commencing September 2026 at the Leeds ICMP Campus.

The closing date for entries is midnight on Sunday 26th June 2026. All applicants will receive an email confirming that their application has been received and accepted. The scholarship place will be awarded on Thursday 13th August 2026. The successful recipient will be contacted by email and/or phone by no later than Monday 17th August 2026. Unsuccessful applicants will also be notified at this time. There is no guarantee that ICMP will offer the same scholarship each year.

Applications will be judged by a panel that will include the scholarship ambassadors, ICMP academic staff, and industry professionals. The panel's decision will be final.

The scholarships will be awarded as reductions in the course tuition fees and will be automatically deducted from the first-year tuition fees of the recipient upon enrolment and subsequently the remaining years on the course, so they will not be charged tuition fees for the duration of the degree programme. The scholarship will not be paid as cash or attributed to other charges such as accommodation or cost of living fees.

The scholarship cannot be transferred to any other student. The recipients must not defer their 2026 ICMP BMus (Hons) Popular Music Performance degree study offer. If they do, their scholarship offer will be invalidated.

The scholarship will be awarded over a three-year period starting in September 2026. The scholarship recipient is expected to cover their living costs for the duration of the BMus programme, although students are entitled to apply for other bursary schemes run by ICMP, such as SLC maintenance loans.

The successful applicant must maintain continuous attendance and engagement through their degree, submitting assessments and course work in academic cycles as required and successfully progressing through the BMus (Hons) Popular Music Performance degree to graduation.

Before making any changes to their course (for example: course transfer, course suspension or course withdrawal), the scholarship recipient must first speak to ICMP, as these changes could invalidate their scholarship.

Any proposed interruption of studies will be considered on a case-by-case basis. If a recipient withdraws or interrupts their studies post enrolment, ICMP will discontinue their scholarship and could seek repayment of any overdue payments.

By applying for the BMus (Hons) Popular Music Performance Scholarship, all applicants agree to share their submitted personal contact details with the admissions team scholarship panel members for judging and application contact purposes.

ICMP Scholarship recipients will likely be contacted throughout their studies to provide testimonial information which may be used in ongoing ICMP promotions, marketing materials or recruitment activity. They may be asked to attend or speak at ICMP events or invited to act as an ambassador for the scholarship scheme. Scholarship holders may be contacted and asked to provide testimonial information about how the scholarship has impacted their career for up to two years after the conclusion of their course. Scholarship recipients can opt out of requested marketing activity by first discussing it with the ICMP scholarship panel.

ICMP reserves the right to withdraw a scholarship if these terms and conditions are not adhered to or if the scholarship recipient is subsequently found to be ineligible. ICMP also reserves the right to amend its scholarship provision without notice.
